The Catholic Diocese of Cleveland Archives serves as the final repository for the permanent records of diocesan offices and closed parishes, maintaining a historical record of the ministry of the Church, both through business transactions and pastoral ministry, in Northeast Ohio.

All sacramental record books from closed parishes, institutions such as orphanages and hospitals, and transcripts from diocesan elementary and high schools are maintained by the Archives. Additionally, the Archives maintains a baptismal locator database to be used as a resource to help people find where their sacramental records are kept.

Archives staff are ready and happy to assist with any questions you have about sacramental records or diocesan history/research. You can find more information by going to our website, http://www.dioceseofcleveland.org/archives. Additionally, you can find contact information and areas of expertise for Archives staff below:
