

Launch of “Called to Protect”

Safe Environment Training Program

The Diocese of Cleveland announces the launch of “Called to Protect:” The most up-to-date and comprehensive safe-environment training program with content and teaching methods that use the latest research and multi-media training to ensure effectiveness. We are partnering with Praesidium, one of the national leaders in abuse risk management, to train parents, youth, young children and staff on how to prevent child sexual abuse.

The Office for the Protection of Children intends to utilize this engaging material as a supplement to the curriculum for children in the schools or parish schools of religion, and as a help especially to parents and families. We will continue to use VIRTUS with its unparalleled database management.
